Triumphant Child Proves to be an Ally for Parents in Uncertain Times

Leading pediatrician and child development specialist have developed a cost effective practical guide for raising preschoolers

Parents were able to breathe a sigh of relief recently with the launch of a breakthrough book, The Triumphant Child: A Practical Guide for Raising Two, Three and Four Year Olds when it was successfully launched in Asheville, North Carolina.

Edited by leading pediatrician, Dr. Olson Huff M.D. and child development specialist Nicole Rawson-Huff, a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the book are being donated to the non-profit organization, Children First.

Their vision began in 1997 when they developed a set of radio messages called "The One Minute Parent." This popular program provided practical tips on raising children and information on child health and development and was successfully syndicated throughout North Carolina.

In September 2008, the pair launched a new parenting website called Sixty Second Parent (www.sixtysecondparent.com), which brought together experts in the field of child health and development in online forums. Its success led to the development of their first book in a series called The Triumphant Child, which brings together some of the most knowledgeable resources on pediatric health, practical parenting, and child development from around the world.

This book essentially provides a roadmap for raising two, three and four year olds. With knowledge and advice from well-known experts and authors, practical tips and hints that can be accessed quickly, and stories and case studies from other parents, it offers real world practical advice for overcoming daily challenges such as routines, aggressive behavior, discipline, setting boundaries, sibling rivalry, eating difficulties, fears and anxieties, and general child health and development issues, as well as tips for celebrating the joys and successes of parenting.

I wish this book had been around when my children were two, three and four years old!"
